CHURCHES WANT
INTERNATIONAL
JUSTICE COURT

This Week Observed in United States for Study and Discussion of Plan for World
Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Five Presidents of the United States have specifically advocated an International Court of Justice according to the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches. They are Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding.

In a carefully prepared paper issued recently the commission declares the Permanent Court of International Justice is an American ideal made practical through American ideas and activities.

In making the material public it was stated that it was submitted to leaders of both political parties and to authorities on international law to pass upon its accuracy. The statement is being sent to 120,000 operators through the country for use in connection with World Court Week, which will be observed by the churches beginning Monday, November 5, and ending on World Court Sunday, which is Armistice Day.

It describes the Permanent Court in simple language, saying in part:

"For many decades the peaceful settlement of international difficulties has been an American ideal. Five American Presidents have specifically advocated an international Court of Justice—Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding.

"Two American Secretaries of State, Hay and Root, instructed the United States delegates to the Hague Conference of 1899 and 1907 to work for its establishment. Senator Knox was proposing a similar plan at his outbreak of war in 1914, which caused its postponement.

"An American statesman, John Root, took a distinguished part in formulating the details of the plan. It was his creative mind that solved the difficulty, therefore appearing almost insuperable, of providing an electoral system conserving the interests of the powers both great and small." (Secretary Hughes)

"America's foremost authority on international law, John Bassett Moore, was elected by the nations to sit as one of the Judges in this Court.

"In obedience to Article 14 of the Covenant, the Council of the League on February 13, 1920, set up a Committee of International Jurists to draft the statute creating the organization and defining the jurisdiction of a World Court of Justice. Of this Committee, Mr. Root was a leading member.

"The Court Statute provides two special Electoral Bodies representing the large and small nations, namely, the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations. When these bodies proceed to the election of Judges for the Court, they sit and act not as the League, but as the electoral agencies for the nations. On September 16, 1921, 11 Judges and four Deputy Judges were thus elected.

"The Court met January 30, 1922, at The Hague for its first extraordinary session for purposes of organization and formulation of the Rules under which it would work. On June 15, 1922, it met for its first regular session and began its work in the judicial settlement of international disputes.

"The Court has already rendered during the year and a half of its existence a number of important opinions and decisions. Several cases are still pending.

It has, for instance, rendered an opinion concerning the rights of German settlers in Poland who had been dispossessed of their land by a Polish law of July 14, 1920. Germany contended that their titles, valid before the war were still valid, by reason of the treaties signed by Poland regarding the rights of minorities. The opinion of the Court sustained the German contention.

"It has also settled the important suit of France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan vs. Germany, establishing the right of the nations under the Versailles Treaty to use the Kiel Canal in transporting munitions. Germany maintained they had no such right.

FIRE IN PINEVILLE
BUSINESS SECTION

Building Burns to Ground Early This Morning—Loss Was About
$5,000

PINEVILLE, Nov. 7.—A fire early this morning in Pineville threatened the business section of the town but was extinguished after it destroyed one frame building. This building, on Kentucky Avenue between Pine and Cherry Streets, was completely destroyed. It was occupied by Joe Bain of the Economy Lunch stand, George Mitchell, a painter and furniture seller, and Steve Taylor's barber shop. The building was owned by three Greeks, George Elings, George Pappas and Jim Haralambis, who ran the Astor Cafe adjoining the building that was burned. The loss was about $5,000.

The origin of the fire is unknown but witnesses say it seemed to originate in the barber shop on the ground floor. The fire was well under way before the fire department was called at 1 a. m. The firemen could do nothing with this building but succeeded in saving the adjoining rooms.

The Greek owners had $1,000 in insurance to cover their $5,000 loss. Mr. Bain of the Economy Lunch stand had $250 insurance and about $100 loss and Taylor, whose barber shop was complete, had $600 insurance.

L. & N. LOADINGS IN
OCT. NEAR RECORD

37,462 Carloads Handled in Month—
Increase in November Is Forecast

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7.—Coal shipped from mines along the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in Eastern and Western Kentucky for the month of October amounted to 37,462 carloads for 2,571,000 tons, representing the highest carloading figure for any month since May and June of 1912, which month produced the record shipments for the L. & N., owing to the fact that only Kentucky mines operated full blast during the 1922 coal strike period.

Loadings for October compare with 34,726 cars, or 2,536,750 tons, for September, and 37,231 cars, or 2,568,700 tons, for August. Every indication points to November also being a record month, according to J. N. Dewberry, general coal and coke agent of the L. & N.

Shipments in October, 1922, were 40,249 cars, or 2,613,000 tons; in September, 32,965 cars, or 1,740,250 tons; and in August, 38,430 cars, or 1,921,600 tons.

During these three months of 1922, however, shipments were interfered with by the rail strike.

Mr. Dewberry pointed to October 8 this year, when 24,089 cars were loaded in the day as being only sixty cars under the carloading record of 3,049 cars established in June, 1922.

"The majority of the coal mined during the period from about May until November 20 goes to Northern cities, especially in the Great Lakes trade, where coal supplies are obtained before winter weather sets in.

APPOINTMENT COMMITTEE ON RURAL TEACHING PROBLEM

Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 7.—J. Virgil Chapman, chairman of the legislative committee of the Kentucky Educational Committee, has received notice of his appointment to the committee of 100 on rural teaching problems. The appointment was made by Dr. C. M. Jones, New York City, president of the National Education Association.

Prof. Chapman, who has been associated with rural school work as supervisor in Kentucky, has accepted the appointment and his committee will work in co-operation with the national body, he said.

Londoners probably go to bed earlier than any other people in the world.

Iowa Federation of Labor is backing a project for establishment of a labor-farmer bank in Des Moines.

"Obviously the settlement of these highly irritating questions on general principles of right and law is vastly superior to a settlement by force or threats of force, or on the mere authority of superior power."

Nation's Women Leaders
Gather For Conference

DECATTER, Ill., Nov. 7.—Eleven million of the United States are represented, in person or by proxy at the opening here today of the biennial conference of the National Council of Women.

The meeting undoubtedly is one of the most democratic ever assembled in America. Every class, every creed, every race is represented. The future welfare of the American woman, to a considerable extent, is in the hands of her leaders this week.

It is easy to understand why Mr. Polkman seeks the woman's vote when it is explained that the 45 organizations of women represented here have a total membership of 11,000,000.

The main work to be done here this week is in connection with the convention of the International Council of Women to be held in Washington in May 1925. The International Council, which was founded by Susan B. Anthony, has a membership of 30,000,000. Its policies so far have been identical with the national body.

Planning Ahead
"The women here today," says Mrs. Philip North Moore of St. Louis, president of the National Council and vice president of the international, "are

CALL WEDNESDAY

Woman's Club to Have Charge of Collecting Membership Renewal Fees

The annual Red Cross roll call this year will be conducted a week from today, November 11, under the auspices of the Woman's Club with Mrs. D. G. Hinks the club's president, and Mrs. R. L. Maddox in charge. The roll call will not be a drive for more funds for the Red Cross but a renewal of the membership in the national organization.

In order to retain the Red Cross work in the public schools in Middlesboro, it is necessary to have a certain number of members of the national organization in Middlesboro. This can be done only by from 500 to 1,000 men and women in Middlesboro making up their minds to stand behind the local and the national Red Cross work, and subscribing their dollar promptly for renewal when solicited by the members of the Woman's Club next Wednesday.

CITIES IN WHICH TO FILE
REVENUE STATEMENTS GIVEN

Forms 1090 and 1096 for filing returns of information are available today at the office of Collector of Internal Revenue, Louisville, and the following branch offices: Ashland, Covington, Lexington, Owensboro, and Paducah.

The early release will be of aid to firms, corporations and businesses employing large forces, which annual returns are required to report to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington payments of $1,000 or more made during the preceding calendar year.

A separate return of information for each employee whose salary for 1922 was $1,000 or more is required of employers on Forms 1090 and 1096, on which must be shown the number of separate returns, serves as a letter of transmittal.

Banks and similar organizations are required to report interest paid or credited to a depositor if the total during the year equalled or exceeded $1,000. Information returns are carefully checked with individual returns. If in a taxpayer's individual return a payment reported on an information return is omitted, action by the Bureau of Internal Revenue follows.

As these forms are supplied only on requisition, all corporations, partnerships and individuals requiring such forms are requested to immediately make known their needs. The filing period is from January 1 to March 15, 1924.

KENTUCKY MILK
LAWS SUPERIOR

Food Director Says State Rules on Cleanliness and Sale of Milk Best in World

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 7.—Kentucky's laws governing the cleanliness and sale of milk are superior to those of any other country in the world and are equal to the most modern and strict of any State in the Union, and should put Kentucky's milk supply among the most healthful in America.

This is the information brought home by Miss Sarah H. Vance, who was delegated by Governor Morrow to represent Kentucky at the World Dairy Congress held in Washington, Philadelphia and Syracuse, New York.

The conferences attended by more than 3,000 people in succession. Miss Vance who is director of the bureau of foods, drugs and hotels of the State Board of Health spoke before the International Dairy Association on "Clean milk for the small town" and told of her problems to keep the State's supply up to the health standard.

Practically every foreign country was represented at the conferences and comparison of laws and enforcement showed Kentucky at the top in up-to-date and efficient enforcement.

The health playlets such as have been inaugurated in the Louisville public schools were explained with the result that the delegates from England, Japan, France and Rumania got details in order to urge adoption of the playlets in their schools.

In Miss Vance's paper she cited the cities of Newport, Winchester, Frankfort and Shelbyville as examples for the several methods of supervision of the small city's milk supply. The importance of inspection on dairy farm and the education of dairymen in the proper production of clean milk, the value of pasteurization, the need of some plan of medical examination of all persons handling food was stressed in Miss Vance and taken up as one of the big issues for which the congress would work.

MORE THAN 45,000 VOTES IN STATE

Coke and Evans elected City Commissioners, Bosworth Re-elected Representative—G. O. P. Falls Down in Bell

ELEVENTH GIVES DEMOCRATS
SURPRISINGLY BIG VOTE

The intense excitement over yesterday's election has died down this afternoon and Middlesboro and Bell county citizens concede the election of William Jason Fields, ex-governor over Charles I. Dawson, ex-Joe F. Bosworth as representative over J. A. McCord, and C. D. Cooke and J. L. Evans as commissioners over J. L. Manning and H. K. Giles. State offices have not been completely counted yet. About 200 persons voted in Middlesboro yesterday.

The race for commissioners was very close. The Democratic vote was much larger than the last election.

The drizzling rain kept many persons away from vote and several hundred people in Middlesboro who were registered failed to get to the polls. This situation was, of course, intensified in the rural and mountain districts, some of which were impassable. No reports of election irregularities or disorder in this section have been reported.

The great interest shown in the election was indicated by the number of persons at the theatres and the Daily News office last night awaiting election returns. These returns were received every few minutes all evening from the Associated Press by telegrams and district precincts over the long distance telephone.

The vote in the city follows: City Hall ward, Cooke, 191; Evans, 209; Manning, 207; and Giles, 180. West End ward, Cooke, 390; Evans, 246; Manning, 213; and Giles, 324. The totals were, Cooke, 1347; Evans, 1824; Manning, 1272; and Giles, 1046.

The vote by precincts in the county, on governor and representative follows: Pineville, Dawson, 288; Fields, 117; Bosworth, 175; and McCord, 173.

The total returns show that Dawson received 5253 votes in Bell county and that Fields received 2550, making the republican majority 2697. With the returns from the Highgate precinct still missing, the report gives Bosworth 4483 and McCord 2315, a majority of 2165 for the former.

Associated Press
LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7.—William J. Fields, democratic nominee for governor, will take office December 11, by virtue of the result of Tuesday's election. Incomplete returns show he was elected over Charles I. Dawson, republican, by approximately 45,000, according to unofficial tabulation. Returns from 114 counties outside of Louisville, gave Fields a majority of 53,039. Five missing counties, Elliott, Knott, Leslie, Owsley and Wolfe, in 1920, gave Harding a majority of 688.

In Jefferson county incomplete returns show Fields leading by 3700. Republican leaders admit Fields carried the city and county by 1600. The democrats claim it by 800. Colonel H. H. Denhardt, of Bowling Green, democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, apparently ran far behind Fields. The cut was attributed to union labor opposition. Denhardt commanded the guardsmen in the strike at Newport. Indications, however, were that Denhardt was elected. Returns from senatorial and legislative races today indicated a democratic victory in the general assembly, as decisive as that of Fields. Returns show 23 democrats and 12 republicans will be in the senate with two races in doubt, and the house shows 33 republicans and 66 democrats in the new alignment.

Louisville entered the democratic column the first time in seven years in the governor's race, but local races are still in doubt.

Democrats were elected in all three states yesterday, where there were gubernatorial elections, Kentucky, Maryland and Mississippi. Vermont, where only a senatorial contest was held, returned a republican, Porter H. Dale, who defeated Park H. Pollard, cousin of President Coolidge. In nine contests for the house, democrats won four and republicans three, one republican victory being upset in which former representative Fairchild defeated his democratic opponent for the place made vacant by the death of J. Vin-cent Gandy in the Twenty-fourth New York district. Party alignment was unchanged in other congressional elections.

The victory of the democrats in Kentucky where Representative William J. Fields defeated Charles I. Dawson, represented a swing of the pendulum which at the last election swept Governor Morrow, republican, into office. Mr. Fields' majority was decisive and he will have a democratic legislature to support him. Governor Ritchie, re-elected in Maryland over Alexander Armstrong, republican, had an increased majority over his first election.

H. L. Whitfield, democrat, had no opposition in Mississippi. In New York state, the republicans retained control of the General Assembly but the democratic judiciary ticket in Manhattan and the Bronx swept into office overwhelmingly the republican independent ticket supported by William R. Hearst.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A statement issued today by Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee regarding yesterday's election said: "Overwhelming smashing victories in Kentucky, Maryland and down-state New York and relatively minor and local democratic victories elsewhere furnish additional proof that voters of the country are against the reactionary faction controlled by the republican national administration, in particular, and against the republican party in sections where reactionaries control it."

Wind Lovers

Sea people hear a wind when there is calm,
And no wind blowing down a bay
at all,
They stand forever listening by a wall
No sight of mountains that can give them balm.
Sea people look forever from a house
To catch the glint of sails along a shore,
You cannot hold them by a wall or door,
They must go back to breaking surf again.

Alvys they hear a breaker in moonlight,
Always they mark a schooner passing by,
Their eyes are always hungry for the sky,
And for a lonely ship to pass at night.
When there is no wind blowing sea folk hear
A schooner grinding by a water pier.

Party Refreshment

If you are entertaining your bridge club in the near future you are undoubtedly racking your brains for something a bit different to serve and a new way to serve it.

Wouldn't a buffet service from the dining-room be a relief to both the hostess and guests? And if the party isn't a club party the move from the tables to the dining-room makes for greater sociability among the guests. The setting of the table with flowers and candles can be made so lovely that the beauty of the whole party is enhanced.

Table Arrangement

The meticulous care with which the table is arranged bespeaks an experienced hostess. Absolute order and neatness must prevail. The silver arranged in rows, the napkins in piles, the plates and cups in perfect balance at opposite sides or ends of the table and the sandwiches and cakes placed with geometrical precision on plates or trays—these details mean much to the ease of service as well as to the attractiveness of the table.

The centerpiece for the buffet luncheon table can be high, if desired. Candles make a lovely light in the late afternoon dusk and add to the festivity of the occasion. Four are used in the center of the table making a square and one can be used in each corner of the table as the hostess sees fit. Shades are passed, so let the candles throw their gleams unshaded.

The Menu

The menu may include tea and coffee or chocolate, a salad, sandwiches, an ice and cakes. Salted nuts, olives, and bon-bons are usually provided.

Two close friends are asked to "pour," one at each end of the table. Tiny individual salads are arranged on a platter for each guest to help herself. These salads would be quite enticing if jellied in molds of hearts, spades or diamonds and served in a leaf of crisp lettuce.

The sandwiches also could be cut in diamonds and hearts. The color scheme of black and red carried out the bridge idea.

Molded Red Salad

One quart cranberries, 3 1/2 cups boiling water, 2 cups sugar, 2 cups Tokay grapes, 1 cup nut meats, 2 cups diced pineapple, lettuce, mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.

Wash and pick over cranberries. Cook in boiling water until the berries burst. Strain through a sieve and add sugar. Soften gelatin in one-half cup cold water and pour boiling cranberry juice over gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Let stand and cool and add grapes, skinned and seeded, nuts, pineapple. Stir until well mixed. When beginning to set turn into a shallow pan to mold and become firm.

Cut with sandwich cutters in the shape of hearts or diamonds. Dip the cutters in cold water before using. Put each salad into a leaf of lettuce and surrounded with mayonnaise. Do not mask with the dressing as that would spoil the effect of the shape and color.

A black salad is made with prunes as the foundation.

Molded Black Salad

One pound prunes, 4 cups water, 4 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 2 cups diced oranges, 1 cup nut meats, lettuce, mayonnaise.

Wash prunes. Soak in cold water for two hours and cook in same water. Simmer slowly until prunes are very soft. Rub through a strainer and add enough boiling water to make four cups. Stir into boiling prune purée. Let stand until cool and beginning to set. Add oranges and nut meats. Mold, chill and cut as in preceding recipe, using clubs and spades for shaping. Salad is attractive served in bright red apples. Small beets of uniform size can be boiled and hollowed out to hold a fish or meat salad.

Curing Ham and Bacon

Do you ever cure ham or shoulder or bacon yourself? It may sound like quite an undertaking but it's really easy to do and very much worth while. A fresh ham is never as expensive as a smoked one at the butcher shop and if you can buy direct from a farmer the saving will amount to much.

Most butchers have smoking facilities for their own use and are willing to take care of the smoking of meat for their customers.

While the cured hams and bacon of the market are very good you will enjoy some home-cured ham.

To Sugar Cure Ham or Bacon

Five pounds salt, 5 ounces pepper, 1 ounce saltpetre, 1 pint molasses. This will cure 100 pounds of pork.

Rub one tablespoon table salt around the bone of the hams and shoulders. Rub meat well with molasses. Mix salt, pepper and saltpetre and rub on the meat. Use about one-third of the whole amount the first time. Let stand three days. Repeat twice with an interval of three days each time. Let stand in a cool place for from four to six weeks. Smoke.

This method does away with fussing with a brine, but it's sort of "messy" rubbing the molasses into the meat, and the meat must be put into tubs while standing. Perhaps you will prefer the use of brine. Personally I think the meat runs less risk of being hard when a brine is used.

To Cure Pork With Brine

First rub each ham with 1 teaspoonful of powdered saltpetre. Rub around the bone with 1 teaspoon of pepper.

For 50 pounds of meat—mix one and one-half pounds brown sugar with two cups salt and rub meat thoroughly. Put a layer of salt in the bottom of a large tub, put in meat, skin side down and sprinkle with salt. Add more meat, cover and let stand for eight days. Then take out, wipe off all the salt and wash the tub.

Take five ounces saltpetre, eight cups molasses, eight cups salt, two gallons water. Boil and skim. When cool pour over meat in the tub. The brine should completely cover the meat. Turn the meat once a week to be sure it is curing evenly. Let stand in the brine four or five weeks. The bacon will cure in three weeks. Then take out and smoke.

The woman who must use any large useful for powdering the back of the amount of laid during the winter will find she can save money if she will buy the fat and dry out the lard at home.

Buy "leaf" lard at the butcher shop and try out the fat. This will insure superior lard for pies and cookies.

To Try Out Lard

Cut the fat into small pieces. Put in a big smooth kettle with just enough water to cover the bottom. The water is added to prevent scorching when the fat is put over the fire. Cook slowly, stirring frequently, until the pieces of fat are crisp and crackly. When these settle to the bottom of the kettle the lard is done. Remove from the fire, and strain into a sterilized stone jar. When cold tie a clean cloth and several thicknesses of paper over the top.

In the good old days these little crumbly bits of fat were made into a sort of porridge. They were known as "cracklins" and were considered a treat.

Put cracklins into boiling water, add salt and sift in corn meal to make a thick mush. Cook, slowly stirring often, just as you do plain corn meal mush. Turn into a mold and when cold and firm cut in thin slices. Fry a golden brown and serve with maple syrup.

This is a really delicious luncheon dish on a cold day.

LONG HANDLE FOR PUFF

A long-handled powder puff is most neck, a portion of the anatomy that cannot be neglected if one is to appear in an evening frock. To make a very attractive one take a slender stick about a foot long and wind it so as to cover the wood completely in the color of yarn you prefer.

Then buy a soft powder puff, preferably fairly large, and cut a cardboard foundation of the same diameter. Cover this with a piece of canvas or wool and decorate it with the new wool hooking that received its inspiration from the hook rugs.

Have the right side of the work toward you and use a crochet hook, about No. 11. Hold the wool on the underside and pull through to the right. Pull the work very close together, and when the design is finished the long loops can be cut off so that all the hooking is even.

Join this to the handle and you have a holder from which you can slip the powder puff when it needs a trip to the laundry.

FOR BOOK LOVERS

This book mark is such a pleasing one it might actually inspire the person who receives it to use it instead of leaving the poor old book open flat on its back—or face—to designate its own place.

It's easy to make, too. Just wind a little soft silverglow yarn around a little cotton to make a head, and add hair and features to taste. Then cover a piece of buckram with ribbon to make the elongated costume. Braid a few strands of the yarn for arms and equip one extremity with a pencil and the other with a paper knife. And there you are!

THESE "DEVILDOGS" HAVE FOUGHT 111 YEARS FOR UNCLE SAMUEL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Leatherneck Luke's verse is not wholly fancy. It's based on fact, though his arithmetic is a little low. The Leatherneck and couple of gals to which he alludes have been fighting Uncle Sam's battles not simply for a round century, in years, but for a total, to date, of 111 years.

Wherever there's been any fighting for Uncle Sam in the last two-score years, there or thereabouts could be found Neville, Pendleton or Feland, of the U. S. Marines—one or all of them.

These three officers, Major General Wendell C. Neville, Brigadier General Joseph H. Pendleton and Brigadier General Logan Feland, grouped together in full uniform and service insignia, present a living color-card exhausting every hue and color of the spectrum.

Feland, who recently has been advanced to assistant to the major general command of the corps, is the Leatherneck referred to. He entered the service from Kentucky, without having ground on spurs and such for four years at Annapolis. Pendleton and Neville, however, put in their apprenticeship at the Naval Academy.

The former was one of the youngest students ever entered there, being only 14 when he won his appointment in 1871. Neville was 16 when he entered in '80.

Their service score, in years, reads as follows: Pendleton, 43; Neville, 37; Feland, 25; total, 111.

Can't Retire Him
Pendleton, who commands the advanced marine base at San Diego, has outmaneuvered many attempts to retire him for bad eyesight. No retirement for him, he insists, until the age limit puts him out.

He has seen service in the States, the Philippines, Guam, Alaska, Nicaragua, Cuba and Santo Domingo—serving as military governor in the latter island during the recent war, when trifling conditions on the island made it a possible base for German operations.

MAJ. GEN. W. C. NEVILLE

Neville's service hits the line hard for a record in variety and colorful experiences. He fought at Guantanamo and Ciego, in Cuba, in '89, started for Manila during the insurrection of 1899, but was diverted to help quell the Chinese Boxer uprising.

Gallant Leader

As a lieutenant colonel he commanded the Second Regiment of Marines at Vera Cruz in 1914. For "conspicuous courage, coolness and skill" was awarded the Medal of Honor.

It was as commander of the Fifth Marines in the World War, however, that Neville found out what modern fighting really means. He led this outfit in the Verdun and Chateau Thierry sectors, and at the head of the Fourth Brigade of Marines was in the thick of fighting near Soissons, the Marbach sector, St. Mihiel, the Champagne and the Meuse-Argonne.

Feland, without Naval Academy or West Point training, had only advanced from first lieutenant to major in 19 years, when he went to Europe on Pershing's staff in 1917. His experience, however, had been varied—Cuba, Philippines, Panama, Porto Rico, Venezuela, Santo Domingo, Mexico. When the Fifth Marines arrived in France, Feland was transferred to that regiment.

In quick succession—as the marines carved their fame in history at Chateau Thierry, Belleau Wood and the Meuse-Argonne, Feland rose to lieutenant colonel, colonel and brigadier general.

Rises Rapidly

For his "energy, courage and disregard for personal safety," in voluntarily leading troops in action through heavy artillery and machine gun fire at Belleau Wood, Feland was awarded the D. S. C.

His other achievements of fighting days include the Navy Distinguished Service Medal, the French Legion of Honor, the Croix-de-Guerre (six times) and two citations in General Orders.

Neville's list of medals and citations is correspondingly imposing and includes, in addition to the Medal of Honor for his gallantry at Vera Cruz in 1914, the French Legion of Honor and the Croix-de-Guerre (four times) and the U. S. Army and the U. S. Navy Distinguished Service Medals. Neville is now commanding the Marine Corps department of the Pacific.

Your Health

Insomnia

Insomnia is no respecter of persons. If you persist in overstepping the rules of health, it may come your way.

The trouble is either functional or symptomatic. It has psychologic, physiologic and pathologic conditions and changes. The tired business man or city dweller, through mental strain or overwork, is a favorite victim. But people of the country or smaller towns are by no means immune. The poor may have their insomnia victims; they sleep well.

Worry, nervous troubles, indulging in improper food at the wrong time and sustained mental strain cause insomnia, in most cases. Conditions of the body itself and environment also play important parts. Do not try to go to sleep with cold feet.

To help insomnia sufferers, I would advise light eating at night. Sometimes a glass of warm milk or even other food may aid sleep by directing the increased flow of blood to the stomach during the night.

Do not resort to sedative, sleeping portions or hypnotic drugs to cure insomnia. Their use will often work greater harm than the insomnia you seek to cure.

Seek plenty of fresh air in walks

FOR CONSTIPATION

Black-Draught Recommended by an Arkansas Farmer Who Has Used It, When Needed, for 25 Years.

Halfield, Ark.—Mr. G. W. Parsons, a well-known farmer on Route 1, this place, says: "I keep Black-Draught in my home all the time. It is the best all-around medicine I have ever found for the liver and for constipation. We began using it 25 or more years ago and have used it whenever needed since. I have never found any other medicine as good for constipation, and that was what I suffered with. I began using Black-Draught. Black-Draught cured this condition, and now we use it for the liver, and for indigestion—a light and sluggish feeling after meals, for bad taste in the mouth and sour stomach."

"My wife uses it for headache and biliousness. It sets on our shelf and we don't let it get out. It has been a great help to us. I believe a great deal of sickness is caused by hurried eating and constipation, and Black-Draught, if taken right, will correct this condition."

Henry P. Potter, motorcycle policeman, was rated as one of the most daring cyclists in the west, back in 1912. But his bravado cost him his life. He was killed in a race while his mother and sister in the stands looked on. Today a single marker covers the grave where he and his father are buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Salt Lake City. And under the inscription for the son is carved a motorcycle of the racing type.

and by the open window at night. Never smoke to excess, its effects on insomnia are far reaching and well defined. A warm bath of short duration will often help greatly.

In pronounced cases of insomnia, the trouble is dangerous and must be considered a real illness and a cause for careful diagnosis by your physician.

Correct Posture

Correct posture, in sitting, rising, standing, walking, sleeping or lying, is of great importance to health.

"When your spine is bent and the body is 'slumped' or in a stooping position, both the chest and the abdominal cavity are narrowed and restricted. The action of the vital organs, in these two cavities, is interfered with. It keeps up more or less all day, the loss in blood circulation will result in brain that can hardly be measured.

In climbing stairs hold the trunk erect. Use your feet and legs to lift you upstairs and not have your body bending over and swaying from side to side. The same thing is true about posture in sitting or during sleep. An erect back posture, during study or office work, will conserve your nerve force to a marked extent.

Sleep with your trunk straight and legs extended. A bent trunk or spine during six or seven hours of sleep will cause a decided loss in nerve force and interfere with proper circulation. It will cause uneasy and restless sleep.

and the waking hours may mean a severe headache or loss of appetite for a nonrising breakfast.
One of the most common forms of lack of proper posture is the bent or drooping shoulders, both in youth and adults. In children, this may be aided by having the weight of the clothing properly adjusted.

In adults, as a result of bad posture, the lower back muscles become strained. The effort to relieve this strain on the sacroiliac joints, causes bent back and drooping shoulders. The strain on these same joints, through improper posture, causes backache in many cases.

The strain is not alone common to the back, but is also in the legs. Many cases of so-called sciatica and rheumatism may be traced to improper posture.

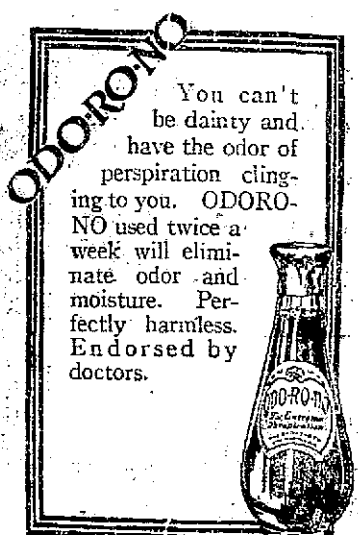

Sugar cane was first cultivated in the United States about the year 1751.

AMERICAN EAGLE FALLS VICTIM TO LOVE OF ALMIGHTY DOLLAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The American eagle, symbol of liberty, free dom independence is threatened with extinction.

If present roads on these birds are permitted to continue, the only place where future generations may find them, according to the American Nature Association, will be on the great American dollar.

And—strange paradox—it will be the dollar, that will have been responsible for the eagle's disappearance.

Wholesale Slaughter

For many in Alaska which is the last stronghold where American eagles are now to be found in any numbers on American soil, these birds of freedom are being slaughtered in the thousands for a territorial bounty of 50 cents each.

Under pressure by the salmon carrying interests in Alaska, the territorial legislature passed a law offering half a dollar for each eagle killed. The law provides that the hunter can get the money by cutting both feet from the bird and producing them together with an affidavit before an Alaskan commissioner.

Since 1917, 26,000 eagle feet, cut from 18,600 birds have been checked and accounted for on the bounty records. But says the Nature Magazine, broadcasting the warning of the association—

Blame Packers

It seems safe to say that instead of 18,000, probably 25,000 American eagles have been killed since the campaign began. Some were wounded and not caught. Many have fallen into inaccessible places where they could not be reached. A large number have been shot for sport by people who have not collected the bounties.

The depredations of the eagle on the Alaskan salmon industry, these nature enthusiasts insist, has been largely over stated by the packers who sponsored the bounty law.

At certain seasons of the year they say fish in Alaska are abundant and the bald eagle undoubtedly lives largely on salmon. But it is a well known fact that salmon die after spawning.

The banks of streams are at times lined with the bodies of spawned out fish. And it is these, in great part, that die carried away and eaten by these birds.

Ask School's Aid

An appeal to save the eagle, America's symbol of liberty is to be broadcast in the hope of stirring public demand for the repeal of Alaska's bounty law. Bulletins will be sent school principals and classes will be asked to unite in protest against the destruction of America's national bird.

The eagle stands firm before every earthly power except the hand of man. The association points out. He is our symbol of courage, our emblem of freedom. Are American ideals in the future to be represented by a de funct species?

Grant that the eagles do diminish the salmon pack by a few cases each year. With the recorded slaughter of 18,000 eagles in five years Alaskans may be sure there are not enough left to affect their supply of fish and game.

The eagle symbol of liberty, must continue to live under the Stars and Stripes.

The criss cross play which I have outlined in the diagram below, has always been one of my favorite plays. I have used it with a considerable degree of success.

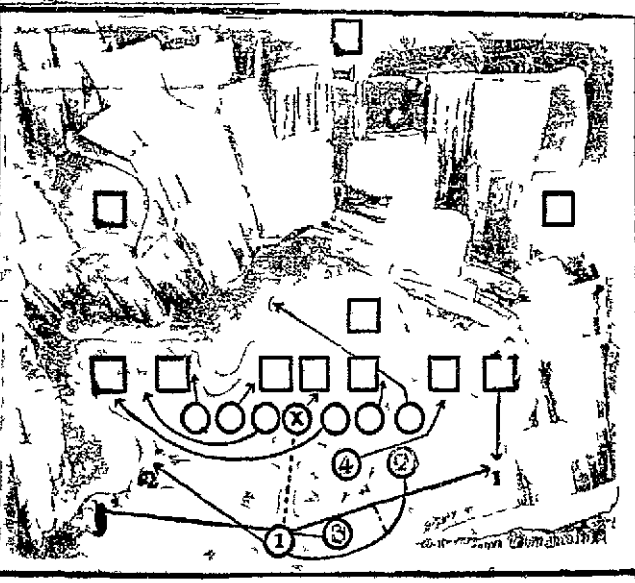

The center makes a direct pass to back No. 1, who runs as if he intended to back outside tackle.

The left guard comes back out of the line and helps the left end block the opposing right tackle.

The right guard comes back out of the line and either helps back No. 1 block the opposing right end or goes on through for secondary defense.

The No. 2 back comes back and takes the ball from No. 1 back and runs behind his interference just inside the opposing right end.

The right end cuts across for secondary defense. The rest of the team block according to the arrows in the diagram.

Plan Big Dinner for Doctor E. Y. Mullins and Seminary Instructors

By Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 7.—Arrangements have been completed by Louisville committee of one hundred for a dinner in honor of Dr. Edgar Y. Mullins, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, recently elected to head 12,000,000 Baptists as president of the Baptist World Alliance. Preparations also are going on within the seminary circle to hold on November 10, at Norton Hill, a unique jubilee celebration in honor of two other members of its faculty, Dr. John R. Sampey and Dr. Archibald T. Robertson. Both men recently reached their sixtieth birthday and each has served for more than a third of a century continuously as teachers at the local Baptist seminary.

Very often, activity of the seminary will be suspended for the event so that the 400 preacher students also may enter into the civic Armistice Day celebration. A varied program has been arranged for the dinner in honor of Dr. Mullins.

Two notable figures in the world of religious pedagogy and authorship will make the principal addresses. Dr. T. M. Price, professor of Hebrew and Cognate Languages at Chicago University and associated for twenty-two years with Dr. Sampey on the International Union Sunday School Lesson committee will express the formal tribute to Dr. Sampey. Dr. S. Angus, professor of New Testament at University of Sydney, Australia will arrive in Louisville only in the week on a similar mission.

Brief tributes also will be expressed by colleagues of the two teachers and the faculty and student body is preparing a suitable recognition.

Dr. Sampey is an Alabamian while Dr. Robertson is a Virginian, being educated at Howard College and Wake Forest College, respectively. They both carry, they three score years gracefully, showing a degree of mental keenness and physical vigor that becomes men of fewer years.

Both Dr. Sampey and Dr. Robertson stepped out as seminary graduates directly into professorships and during their terms, have built up departments that have world wide prestige.

ABYSSINIAN SPEAKS AT NEGRO CHURCH TONIGHT

The Rev. Dr. C. F. Cheedzi, an African from Abyssinia, educator, minister and lecturer, is in Middlesboro and will preach tonight at the "Thankful Baptist church on Nineteenth street, 7:30 o'clock, on "Jesus Democracy—What Is It?"

Dr. Cheedzi is described as the nineteenth son of a father possessing 26 children, as being 35 years old, a graduate of the University of Oxford, Eng., with degrees of Ph. D., M. A. and D. D. from European colleges, and as being a master of 15 languages.

In the course of his address this morning to the students of the colored high school, he said: "Never will economic nor political settlements be sufficient to stay the catastrophic misery that is impending among the nations until the ethics of Jesus and his presence are accepted in the vanguard of their deliberation. The black race will become a people of respect and power only when love and sympathetic interest become the dominant attributes of their lives and Africa becomes the final habitat."

White people are especially invited.

Don't add the Ball & Chain

Railroads are the most regulated business in the United States. There are all of 99 state and national bodies created by law to tell the railroads what they must and must not do. In no other business is individual initiative governed in its efforts by such a volume of legislation.

Notwithstanding the legislative restrictions, the Railroads, under efficient private management, have been making rapid progress in rehabilitating the transportation plant after the well-nigh disastrous period of Government operation and control, and are now successfully handling the peak traffic load.

In spite of the fact that net earnings have been small, the railroads of the country are spending this year a billion and a half dollars in the purchase of new locomotives, freight and passenger cars, better tracks, bridges and terminal facilities, etc., in order that the nation's business may move unhampered and the public may be adequately served.

Unmindful of the enormous losses and the under-maintenance during the twenty-six-months period of Government control, there are some radical politicians and other selfish interests who are agitating and advocating Government ownership of the railroads as the solution of the transportation problem. They have a number of misguided followers.

The L. & N. Railroad, in common with the other railroads of the country, asks that you get all of the facts and consider well the conditions which would exist under Government ownership. With these fully understood, no right-thinking man or woman who is interested in our nation's progress would advocate the further impeding of transportation by the addition of the ball and chain.
